CHAMPAGNE

"Remember gentlemen, it's not just France we're fighting for, it's Champagne!"

WINSTON CHURCHILL

Champagne is an Appellation d'Origine Contrôlée (AOC) meaning that it can only be produced in one specific geographical area. The Champagne region is found around 150km to the East of Paris and is split into 5 main growing areas as shown:

1. MONTAGNE DE REIMS	2. VALLÉE DE LA MARNE	3. CÔTE DES BAR	4. CÔTE DE SÉZANNE	5. VITRY LE FRANÇOIS	6. CÔTE DES BLANCS

OPENING A BOTTLE OF SPARKLING WINE:

Unless you have won a Formula 1 Grand Prix, the act of opening a bottle of sparkling wine should be a dignified occasion!

1. Ensure your wine is well chilled! As sparkling wines warm up, the pressure inside the bottle will rise leading to increased bubble production once the bottle opens. Chilling your bottle reduces the danger of wine spraying out once the cork or closure is removed.
2. Remove the foil covering the cork and loosen the cage by twisting the closure. Take care to keep your thumb on the cage and cork at this stage as, if your wine is too warm, the increased pressure could cause the cork to fly out once the cage is loose.
3. Grip the cage firmly in one hand and the bottom of the bottle in your other.
4. Twist the bottle, never the cork, and slowly remove the cage and cork from the bottle. Use your thumb on the hand gripping the cage to put downward pressure on the cork to ensure it is removed smoothly.
5. Release the cork gently from the bottle – the aim here is to avoid a loud bang or pop sound. You should hear a gentle hiss as the pressure is gradually released from the bottle.
6. Keeping your bottle slightly tilted at an angle just after opening will help prevent any wine from spilling over.
7. Your sparkling wine is now ready to serve and enjoy!

Recommended service temperature: 8-10 °C

GLASSWARE:

Flutes are ideal for sparkling wines – the long narrow bowl ensures that bubbles forming at the bottom of the glass will travel through the maximum amount of wine, picking up aromas as they go before releasing them as they pop on the surface. The narrow opening to the glass reduces the surface area of the wine meaning your wine stays fizzy for longer. A slight taper to the rim of the glass will help concentrate the aromas further meaning your sparkling wine will display more character.

Unless throwing a Gatsby themed party, Champagne coupes are generally to be avoided. The wide bowl and narrow base encourage people to hold the glass by the bottom of the bowl which serves only to heat the wine up.

Additionally the wide opening to the glass allows far more of the fizz to escape making your sparkling wine turn flat much quicker!

THE MAIN TYPES OF CHAMPAGNE COMPRISE OF:

NV – Non Vintage:

A wine made from a blend of grapes grown across different years. These wines are very consistent in quality and flavours from year to year creating a House style

Vintage

A wine made from grapes grown in a single year or 'millesime'. These wines display a unique character, a signature from that year

Blanc de blancs

Wine made from 100% Chardonnay grapes

Blanc de noirs

Wine made using Pinot Noir & Pinot Meunier grapes

CHAMPAGNE IS MADE USING 3 MAIN GRAPE VARIETIES:

Chardonnay

(white skinned)
adds floral, citrus and mineral flavours

Pinot Noir

(red skinned)
adds red fruit flavours, body and backbone to wines

Pinot Meunier

(red skinned)
adds roundness to the blend creating supple, fruity wines

CHAMPAGNE 2023

The Champagne appellation represents 0.5% of world vineyard acreage and 4% of France's total vineyard area.

After a 2022 year that proved unprecedented in demand with soaring prices of dry goods, an increase in production costs due to our environmental practices and of course inflation and the geo-political context, we have to remain comprehensive in 2023 and we would recommend that you anticipate as much as you can all your need.

HOW TO ORDER

You can contact us 7/7.

BURGUNDY

A household name across the wine world, Burgundy is home to some of the most well known, prestigious and most expensive wines in the world!

ABOUT

There is a complex system of classification for the wines of Burgundy but it can be simplified as follows; The classification is based upon the quality of the land in the vineyard and its potential to produce outstanding grapes. This is the basis of the French philosophy of terroir - the idea that when you drink a glass of wine, you taste the region it was made in, its history and its traditions.

White Burgundy wines are predominantly 100% Chardonnay but some white wines are also made from Aligote & Pinot Gris.

HOW TO ENJOY A GLASS:

To make the most of your Burgundy wines, we recommend they are tasted and enjoyed from glasses with a long stem, a large and which have a large, rounded bowl which narrows at the rim.

Recommended service temperature:

Between 10 - 13°C

KEY TERMS:

Grand Cru

A classification reserved for the very best wines of the region – these wines are the most expensive and most sought after.

Premiere Cru

Produced using grapes from very high quality vineyards. These vineyards make up around 12% of the total area of Burgundy and the wines can still command high prices.

Village Wines

Produced from grapes grown in any of up to 42 villages in Burgundy. The name of the village will appear on the bottle and these wines make-up around 36% of the Burgundy market.

Clos

An enclosed, walled vineyard

Domaine

A winery that owns vineyards

Regional Wines

Technically the lowest quality level in the classification system. These wines use grapes from a combination of vineyards across villages. Labelled simply as wines of Bourgogne, they make up around 50% of the Burgundy wine market.

Negociant

A company / brand that buys grapes or wine

Lieu-dit / Climat

A specific vineyard plot, usually of exceptional quality

ABOUT

Bordeaux produces more wine per year than any other wine region in France. While better known for its stunning array of red wines, they also make fabulous dry and sweet white wines!

Bordeaux Blanc are usually blends of Semillon, Sauvignon Blanc and Muscadelle grapes. The most famous and highly prized of all is the sweet wine, Sauternes. Semillon is the workhorse of the bunch, attracting the most noble rot with its thin skins and adding a rich texture to the wine. Sauvignon Blanc brings the acidity, lacking in Semillon, while Muscadelle enhances the blend with its floral characteristics. The "noble rot" leads to a "raisining" of the Semillon grapes, concentrating their sugars and flavours. With sugar levels between 120-220 grams per litre, Sauternes qualifies as a very sweet wine, pairing beautifully with some of the region's most classic dishes, including a variety of pungent cheeses and, of course, foie gras.

The dry whites of Bordeaux are usually lightly oaked giving them more of a medium than light body. They have vibrant and refreshing acidity along with notes of grapefruit which is an exquisite pairing with fresh scallops, roast chicken dishes or even light salads.

The wines of Sauternes are incredibly age-worthy capable of developing and maturing in cellars for decades! Don't be alarmed if your aged Sauternes is deep brown in colour, these wines develop rich and complex aromas and flavours such as salted caramel, roasted hazelnuts, crème brulee and toasted brioche.

Recommended service temperature:

Sweet whites: 8°C

Medium bodied whites: 12°C

ALSACE

The grape varieties here are almost exclusively made into mono-varietal wines which gives each wine a marked and notable character.

KEY TERMS:

Vendanges Tardives

Late harvest, the grapes are literally left on the vines and harvest later. These grapes will therefore have naturally high sugar levels.

ABOUT

A long and narrow Appellation which traces the French border with Germany, and explains the extensive influence in the wines from their neighbours to the East.

The grape varieties you will find here are rarely grown in France outside of Alsace and are more commonly associated with German and Austrian viticulture, notably; Riesling, Gewurztraminer and Pinot Gris.

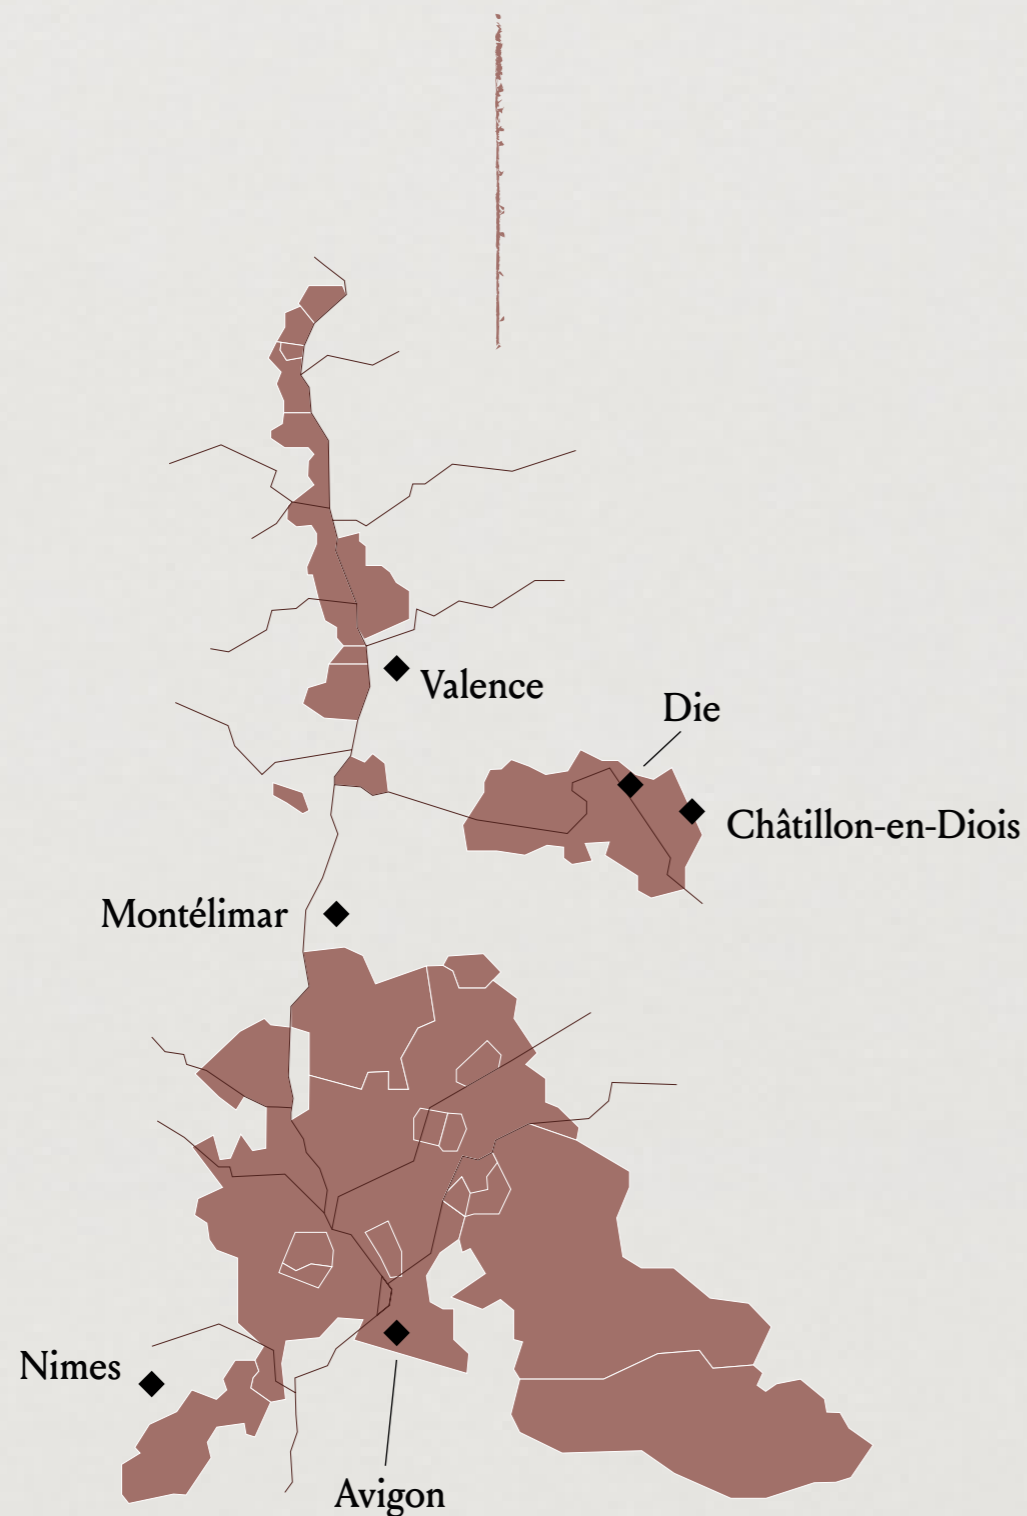

There is a great diversity in the wines of Alsace with white wines made in dry, off-dry, sweet and very sweet styles. They also produce a significant amount of Cremant (sparkling) wines as well as some rose and red wines.

Recommended service temperature:

- Sweet whites: 5-8°C*
- Light bodied whites: 7-10°C*
- Medium bodied whites: 10-12°C*
- Sparkling wines: Around 8°C*

RHÔNE VALLEY

ABOUT

Due to geographical and climatic differences, we generally discuss the Rhone Valley as two distinct sections; the Northern Rhone and the Southern Rhone.

In the Northern Rhone, the climate is warmer than that of nearby Burgundy but distinctly cooler than the Mediterranean coastal region to the South. This area is home to Viognier which is used to make exquisite white wines with exotic fruits, fruits and floral boquets. These wines are rich, dense and luxurious. Other notable grapes are Rousanne and Masanne which are used to make age worthy wines with complex and honeyed aromas.

Further to the South, the climate is notably warmer and the region is marked by a fierce wind that races down the valley, known as the Mistral. The effects of the Mistral can often be felt around the seaside towns of La Ciotat and Marseille.

White wines take a back-seat to the more illustrious reds, principally made from Grenache Blanc and Clairette. White grapes can be used to make up the blends of some powerful reds such as Chateauneuf-du-Pape but when made into white wines they are well-rounded with notes of honeysuckle, stone fruits and melon.

ABOUT

Internationally renowned and highly prized for their delicacy and freshness, Provencal pink is now the Summer drink of choice for many people around the globe. No longer seen as a feminine drink, rose wine has now taken pride of place as the go-to wine for summer sundowners, afternoons at the beach and aperitifs. Don't be afraid to use these wines in food pairings either as their vivacity and floral, fruity notes make them a great match with salads, light cheeses as well as fish and seafood dishes – especially sushi!

The rose wines from Provence are typically designed to be enjoyed in their youth to get the most from their delicacy and bright, fresh flavours. Ranging in colour from vibrant pinks to soft and subtle salmon, they are a delight for the eyes as well as the palate.

For best results, drink these wines from the same glasses you would use for your light and fresh whites – the narrower bowl and tapered rim will help to intensify the summery and floral aromas.

ABOUT

Bordeaux is the largest wine producing region in France and red wines account for almost 90% of their annual output. It is geographically split into two major areas, the Left Bank and the Right Bank, divided by the Gironde river.

In simplest terms, the wines of the Left Bank are dominated by Cabernet Sauvignon grapes, while those of the Right Bank are more Merlot dominant.

WINE CLASSIFICATION AND RANKING IN BORDEAUX:

It was in Bordeaux that the notion of wine classification was born with "le Classement de 1855" under Napoleon III. It is still used as the base by which all the great wines of the region are ranked and compared. It is not though an exhaustive guide, with noticeable omissions such as Petrus – omitted as the sub-region of Pomerol still refuses to classify and rank their wines in this way! Classification in Bordeaux differs to the Burgundian system in that it is the wine producer, the vineyard itself that received the classification. In Burgundy it is the individual parcel of land, and therefore the grapes that are classified.

Recommended service temperature:

Between 15-16°C

WHEN DO I DECANT?

Decanting serves two main purposes;

1. To separate the wine from any sediment that may have formed over time
2. To introduce oxygen to a wine (aeration). This can be to minimise and reduce the effects of UV damage to wines, to "wake up" and invigorate wines that have had too little oxygen in the bottle, and it can also be used to "open up" wines – enhancing and further developing subtle characteristics, while reducing the appearance of some tannins and acids.

HOW TO DECANT:

1. Stand your bottle of wine upright at least a few hours (ideally 24 hours plus but the longer the better) prior to decanting. This will allow the naturally formed sediment to settle at the bottom of the bottle which makes separating it from the wine easier.
2. Remove the capsule or cork from the wine and gently clean the neck of the bottle to ensure no residue, cork fragments or trapped sediments enter your wine as you decant.
3. Make sure your decanter is clean and dry before using!
4. Put a light source between the bottle and your decanter. As you pour, this light source must be directly under the neck of the bottle this will make it much easier to identify when sediment becomes present in the wine.
5. Pour slowly and steadily, looking down at the neck of the bottle as you do – pouring slowly is crucial as it will minimise disturbances to the wine in the bottle (preventing the sediment from remixing into the wine). It also makes spotting sediment far easier as you should have a thin stream of wine running through the neck of the bottle at all times.
6. As you get to the bottom half of the wine, pour even more slowly – depending on how well your sediment has separated from the wine you may begin to see traces entering the neck soon...
7. As soon as you see sediment in the neck of the bottle, STOP pouring. This may appear as visible particles in the otherwise clear wine, or it may be that the wine in the neck of the bottle becomes cloudy.

BURGUNDY

ABOUT

The concept of climat is unique to Burgundy, it is an expression of everything that affects a wine that cannot be controlled or changed – everything which is unique to the growing area of the vines, its terroir.

The soil composition, the angle of sunlight during the growing season, the presence or absence of wind and rain all contribute to the final taste and aroma composition of a wine creating a snapshot in time of that particular location.

In terms of red wines this makes the Pinot Noir grown in Burgundy unique and contributes, at least in part, to the extraordinarily high prices commanded by the very best examples.

As in Bordeaux there exists a complex classification system for the wines of Burgundy but it is based entirely on the conditions and quality found in individual plots of land. It can be said that in Burgundy it is the grapes themselves that are awarded the classification and not the final wine.

The perfect Burgundy glass has a wide bowl for maximum aeration and extraction of aromas – look for glasses with a tapered rim. This will concentrate and funnel those delicious aromas to your nose.

Recommended service temperature:

Between 15-16°C

GLASSWARE

The perfect Burgundy glass has a wide bowl for maximum aeration and extraction of aromas – look for glasses with a tapered rim. This will concentrate and funnel those delicious aromas to your nose.

FACTS AND FIGURES

The vineyards of the Bourgogne region are home to some celebrated varietals. With more than 80% planted with Chardonnay and Pinot Noir!

Did you know that Pinot Noir juice is clear? To take on its lovely red color, the grapes must be macerated in vats to put the skins containing the color in contact with the juice. If they were vinified without maceration, Pinot Noir grapes would produce a white wine. This is the case for Crémant de Bourgogne Blanc de Noir wines as well as the famous wines of Champagne.

VALLÉE DU RHÔNE

ABOUT

Internationally renowned for household names like Chateauneuf-du-Pape, the region is best understood if divided into 2 sub-sections.

In the Northern Rhone, home to Cote-Rotie, St-Joseph & Crozes Hermitage, amongst others, Syrah takes centre stage creating wines of great structure with a deep and spicy flavour.

Further South we reach household names such as Chateauneuf-du-Pape, Vaqueras & Gigondas. Full bodied, unapologetic wines, dominated by Grenache but with a healthy dose of Syrah in a supporting role.

ARMAGNAC

ARMAGNACS

ABOUT

Armagnac is the oldest wine based eau-de-vie produced in southwest France, in the heart of Gascony. Obtained from the distillation of white wine in an Armagnac alambic and put to age for many long years in oak barrels before being sold, it comes as blends (made from several eaux-de-vie from different harvests) or as vintages that are specific to Armagnac (one single year of harvest).

Bas-Armagnac, Armagnac Tenarèze and Haut-Armagnac together constitute a vineyard in the form of a vine leaf that represents 15 000 hectares of vines planted (shared with the IGP Côtes de Gascogne and PDO Floc de Gascogne, of which today, 4200 hectares are identified exclusively for the production of Armagnac) over a part of the three departments: The Gers, the Landes and the Lot-et-Garonne.
